Celebrated British artist Michael Landy discusses his major public art projects including Break Down (2001), Art Bin (2010) and Acts of Kindness (Kaldor Public Art Project 24, 2011), opening in Sydney on 23 September.

First known as one of the Young British Artists and later for his monumental work Break Down in which he systematically destroyed all of his possessions, Landy's provocative works consider contemporary values, from economic worth to the importance of human relationships.
